UPDATE: Coronavirus Impact

Hemisphere GNSS Customers and Partners,

HGNSS continues to attentively monitor the COVID-19 pandemic.

Within North America, states and provinces are evaluating, and in some cases implementing, phased approaches to re-opening various business sectors. Similar evaluations of phased re-opening are occurring globally. Our US-based headquarters and operations centers for Hemisphere GNSS and Outback Guidance remain classified as Essential Businesses and remain open and operational.

While HGNSS has encountered some Supply Chain impacts, and in some cases, shipment delays, we are optimistic that these impacts will decrease over time. Manufacturers worldwide are impacted by containment measures being undertaken by many countries. These containment protocols may also impact our customers' ability to receive product. We remain committed to working to mitigate delays and disruptions.

HGNSS continues to be operational, and our global offices are adhering to COVID-19 governmental directives.

Should there be specific impacts to your orders, HGNSS will continue to communicate with you directly via email.

Thank you in advance for your continued understanding during this interruption.

Best Regards,

Hemisphere GNSS Team
